Trust the Experts!

Clay-Greene has been furnishing pumping equipment, as well as chlorination systems, specialty control valves, and related equipment to municipal utilities since 1972. Much of that equipment is manufactured in our Alabaster, Alabama facility.

Why do I need a service contract?

We know that regular inspection, testing, review, and maintenance results in longer equipment life and lower overall operational cost over time.

We also recognize that some of our customers may not have the time or expertise to perform recommended maintenance on a standard schedule.

It is hard to be an expert in everything and most of our customers have a heavy work load already.

Service Contracts Save You Money

Because it is more cost-effective to schedule regular service than to provide on-demand emergency service when something goes wrong, Clay-Greene can offer a service contract at a discounted cost to you.

What Does a Service Contract Include?

By subscribing to this program, one of our technicians will visit your facility at regularly scheduled intervals to do the following for the equipment under contract:

1. Inspect the general condition
2. Test the equipment for proper operation
3. Perform scheduled maintenance
4. Review findings and discuss any issues, including answering questions and providing additional training to operators
